The second day of the programme was dedicated to the senior section students, and it began on a somber yet meaningful note. A two-minute silence was observed paying tribute to the women of our society who in spite of suffering with the atrocities of the society continue to stand strong. Sir Banjara, one of the oldest and most respected members of the St. Aloysius family, who passed away last year was also remembered. His portrait made by the talented Aloysians was also kept in our midst. Sir Banjara's legacy continues to live on in the hearts of the Aloysian community, remembered fondly for his artistic talent and infectious enthusiasm. Following this heartfelt moment, the senior section programme unfolded with various performances that were both entertaining and thought-provoking:

The event began with a prayer service, invoking blessings and peace. It set a serene atmosphere, acknowledging the spiritual connection that St. Aloysius holds as part of its tradition.

A melodious song followed the prayer, performed by a group of senior students. The song reflected appreciation for the teachers and gratitude for their relentless efforts in guiding the students through their educational journeys.

The first skit of the day portrayed the life of a teacher, focusing on the struggles and sacrifices that educators make for the sake of their students. It carried a powerful message, encouraging the students to recognize the challenges their teachers face, while also urging them to strive for self-improvement despite their own hardships.

During the senior section programme, special awards were presented to the teachers as a token of appreciation. Each teacher received a customised memento, which included a hand-drawn portrait crafted by the students themselves. The portraits were a beautiful tribute, reflecting the close bond between students and teachers, and the effort put into creating these personalised gifts was deeply appreciated by the teachers.
